

Abstract of the Disclosure

A handle support is constructed for removable attachment to, a tool, appliance or other implement for hand held use. The

- 5 handle support includes a brace portion extending rearward in a helical form. The brace portion circumscribes an open space which is substantially conical in form.